He was stuck in a dead end job living paycheck to paycheck and overwhelmed by debt. Bob had been following the world's advice with money and this was the fruit of it. As he continued to follow the four steps, he paid off over 400,000 in debt, reached a personal goal of giving 1 million by age 40, and achieved a level of financial freedom he never dreamed possible in his casual and approachable style. Bob along with his fun-loving wife, Linda, shares everything he learned about achieving true financial freedom including how to create a money system so you can spend less time and get better results. The Behavior Gap

it’s not that we’re dumb we’re wired to avoid pain and pursue pleasure and security it feels right to sell when everyone around us is scared and buy when everyone feels great it may feel right but it’s not rational from the behavior gap why do we lose money it’s easy to blame the economy or the financial markets but the real trouble lies in the decisions we make as a financial planner carl richards grew frustrated watching people he cared about make the same mistakes over and over they were letting emotion get in the way of smart financial decisions he named this phenomenon the distance between what we should do and what we actually do the behavior gap using simple drawings to explain the gap he found that once people understood it they started doing much better. Richards’s way with words and images has attracted a loyal following to his blog posts for the New York Times, appearances on National Public Radio, and his columns and lectures. His book will teach you how to rethink all kinds of situations where your perfectly natural instincts for safety or success can cost you money and peace of mind. He’ll help you to avoid the tendency to buy high and sell low, avoid the pitfalls of generic financial advice, invest all of your assets, time, and energy as well as savings more wisely, quit spending money and time on things that don’t matter, identify your real financial goals, start meaningful conversations about money, simplify your financial life, stop losing money. It’s never too late to make a fresh financial start as Richards writes, “We’ve all made mistakes, but now it’s time to give yourself permission to review those mistakes, identify your personal behavior gaps, and make a plan to avoid them in the future.” The goal isn’t to make the perfect decision about money every time, but to do the best we can and move forward most of the time. That’s enough.
