North Africa, composed of Egypt, Libya, Tunisia, Algeria, and Morocco, is a region in the midst of major transition. Long ruled by brutal local dictators, in 2011 several of those nations threw out their unpopular rulers and demanded the institution of democracy. Meanwhile, most young North Africans are far better educated than they were only a few decades ago. They study hard, hoping to scoop up high-paying jobs. The Egyptians, Libyans, and other North Africans are therefore pushing for better, brighter futures. At the same time, however, many aspects of their culture remain rooted in tradition. Among these are family and gender roles, religious and marriage customs, and traditional foods and folk music. As a result, North African culture remains old-world charming and even quaint while its politics, education, and finances keep pace with the fast-changing outside world.

Islam in Historical Perspective provides readers with an introduction to Islam, Islamic history, and societies, with carefully selected historical and scriptural evidence that enables them to form a comprehensive and balanced vision of Islam's rise and evolution across the centuries and up to the present day. Combining historical and chronological approaches, the book examines intellectual dialogues and socio-political struggles within the extraordinary rich Islamic tradition, treating Islam as a social and political force. The book also addresses Muslim devotional practices, artistic creativity, and the structures of everyday existence. Islam in Historical Perspective is designed to help readers develop personal empathy for the subject by relating it to their own experiences and burning issues of today. It contains a wealth of historical anecdotes and quotations from original sources that are intended to emphasize its principal points in a memorable way. This new edition features a thoroughly revised and updated text, new illustrations, expanded study questions, and chapter summaries.

Land, politics, and memory in five Nija IB K'iche' títulos is a careful analysis and translation of five Highland Maya títulos composed in the sixteenth century by the Nija IB K'iche' of Guatemala. The Spanish conquest of Highland Guatemala entailed a series of sweeping changes to indigenous society, not the least of which were the introduction of the Roman alphabet and the imposition of a European system of colonial government. Introducing the history of these documents and placing them within the context of Colonial Era Guatemala, this volume provides valuable information concerning colonial period orthographic practice, the K'iche' language, and language contact in Highland Guatemala. For each text, author Mallory E. Matsumoto provides a photographic copy of the original document a transliteration of its sixteenth century modified latin script a transcription into modern orthography an extensive morphologic analysis and a line by line translation into english as well as separate prose versions of the transcription and translation no complete english translation of this set of manuscripts has been available before nor has any highland maya título previously received such extensive analytical treatment offering insight into the reality of indigenous highland communities during this period land politics and memory in five nija ib k'iche títulos is an important primary source for linguists historians and experts in comparative literature it will also be of significant interest to students and scholars of ethnohistory linguistics latin american studies anthropology and archaeology the number of english medium international schools that deliver their curriculum wholly or partly in the english language reportedly reached 6 000 in january 2012 it is anticipated this number will rise to over 11 000 schools by 2022 employing over 500 000 english speaking teachers the number of children being taught in these schools reportedly reached 3 million in march 2012 alongside this phenomenal growth the landscape of international schooling has changed fundamentally moving away from largely serving the children of the expat and globally mobile business community and embassies towards serving the local children of the wealthy and emerging middle class this has been reflected in the shift away from non profit ownership by the school community towards ownership by for profit companies and proprietors in this book tristan bunnell explores the changing landscape of international schooling and discusses the implications of these changes both in terms of theoretically conceptualizing the scale nature and purpose of the field and in terms of practically serving and administering the growing industry that international education is becoming the changing landscape of international schooling will be worthwhile reading for researchers academics remembering the cold war examines how more than two decades since the collapse of the soviet union cold war legacies continue to play crucial roles in defining national identities and shaping international relations around the globe given the cold war s blurred definition it has neither a widely accepted commencement date nor unanimous conclusion what is to be remembered this book illustrates that there is in fact a huge body of remembrance and that it is more pertinent to ask what should be included and what can be overlooked over five sections this richly illustrated volume considers case studies of cold war remembering from different parts of the world and engages with growing theorisation in the field of memory studies specifically in relation to war david lowe and tony joel afford careful consideration to agencies that identify with being victims of the cold war in addition the concept of arenas of articulation which envelops the myriad spaces in which the remembering commemorating memorialising and even revising of cold war history takes place is given prominence

this book investigates the long term continuity of large scale states and empires and its effect on the near east s social fabric including the fundamental changes that occurred to major social institutions its geographical coverage spans from east to west modern day libya and egypt to central asia and from north to south anatolia to southern arabia incorporating modern day oman and yemen its temporal coverage spans from the late eighth century BCE to the seventh century CE during the rise of Islam and collapse of the Sasanian empire. The authors argue that the persistence of large states and empires starting in the eighth-seventh centuries BCE which continued for many centuries led to new socio-political structures and institutions emerging in the Near East. The primary processes that enabled this emergence were large-scale and long-distance movements or population migrations these patterns of social developments are analysed under different aspects: settlement patterns, urban structure, material culture, trade, governance, language, spread, and religion. All pointing at movement as the main catalyst for social change. This book's argument is framed within a larger theoretical framework termed as universalism, a theory that explains many of the social transformations that happened to societies in the Near East, starting from the Neo-Assyrian period and continuing for centuries among other influences. The effects of these transformations are today manifested in modern languages, concepts of government, universal religions, and monetized and globalized economies.
